

Improvements Continue

Contributed by Robert
Wednesday, 18 April 2007

Transformation of this website continues to make it easy for you to find what you are looking for. Our advanced tool area continues to get new members everyday. You can still take advantage of this limited time free registration.

Even though I have launched the new design just about 2 months ago the transformation of this website is not completed. More radical changes are still to com in the next few days and your experience here will get even better. One of the biggest changes involves the transfer of this whole website to a new domain name I have registered just a few days ago. I was on the hunt for this domain name for quite some time and as this domain name industry is quite competitive it wasn't an easy task. With the tools offered here I was able to get a domain name I like and paid only $5.99 for it rather than spending thousands of dollars.

The new advanced domain name search tools seem to be successful. New members are registering every day to take advantage my limited time free membership offer. If you haven't registered yet you still have some time before I start charging for this service.

Stay tuned for more updates :-)

Robert